

Positive mood to start the week

There was a somewhat positive mood on markets yesterday. Bank shares rose across the board, following the sale of most of SVB's loans and deposits to First Citizen Bank in the US. The US KBW bank share index finished the day up 2.5%, while the Euro Stoxx 600 financials index rose 1.5%. Overall, the Euro Stoxx 600 finished up 1%, although, the S&P 500 gained just a meagre 0.2%.

On bond markets trading conditions remained volatile, with significant intra-day movements once again. Overall, UK Gilt and German Bund yields climbed 10-20bps higher. Meanwhile, US Treasury yields rose by 10-15bps along the curve.

Currency-wise, the main pairs operated in narrow ranges yesterday. A quiet data schedule likely contributed to the lacklustre price action. The only release of note, the German Ifo for March, printed ahead of the consensus, rising to 93.3 from 91.1 (vs. 91.0 f'cast). However, the euro was not impacted by the data. Of the limited moves to register, the dollar and the yen were under some downward pressure, amid the more positive tone to risk appetite.

As trading gets underway this morning, EUR/USD is changing hands just above the $1.08 threshold. EUR/GBP remains in the top half of 87-88p. Meanwhile, GBP/USD is operating in the lower half of the $1.23-1.24 corridor.

Today, there is a relatively quiet data schedule on both sides of the Atlantic once again. The main release, the US Conference Board measure of consumer confidence is forecast improve slightly in March. Meantime, remarks from a number of central bank speakers, including ECB President Lagarde and BoE Governor Bailey will be under the microscope.
