

AIB announces full pay for staff with dependents whose partner is a public healthcare worker

16th March 2020

Following feedback from our colleagues AIB has announced it is providing full pay to any of our staff with dependents whose partner is a public healthcare worker. This will allow these important healthcare workers to attend work and help our country through these extraordinary times.

Geraldine Casey, Chief People Officer, AIB said “Coronavirus presents our society with unprecedented challenges. AIB is determined to play whatever part we can in helping society meet these challenges. We will not be found wanting in backing our staff and our customers in the communities we operate in. We are here to support and empower our people, and their people, within the public healthcare service through this evolving situation.”
